Introduction

When you instructed us in relation to your Will and Succession Planning you made an investment of your time and your money.

Like any investment, it is always good to keep your Will and Succession Planning arrangements under review. In the Legal Review Programme we will take the lead on this by reviewing your affairs on an annual basis, saving you time and energy.

There are a number of elements which may change in the future and which could affect your Succession Planning arrangements.

These can include changes to:

- | | | | |
|--|--|--|--|
|
Tax law |
HMRC practice |
Your financial situation |
Your health |
|
Your beneficiaries' circumstances |
Your family |
Your executors' circumstances |
Your marital status |

Programme Overview

01

The Legal Review Programme is a fixed-fee retainer service where we will review your Will and Succession Planning and proactively contact you at least once a year, with other optional benefits and contact opportunities available.

02

We will review your documents in light of changes in law and practice after which we will contact you with advice. You will then be prompted to consider the impact of changes in your own personal circumstances, your family and financial affairs and can then take the appropriate action if necessary.

03

This annual review ensures that the investment of time and money you have made now remains valid and up to date.

Disclaimer: The Legal Review Programme provides members with an annual review and general advice to take additional steps to update your affairs, after having considered your personal circumstances, by amending your Will or other documents, if necessary. It is not a comprehensive review of your circumstances and further advice should always be sought if you are unsure about the impact of any changes in tax law or practice on your affairs.
